1. Did the course meet your expectations? Why or Why not?
I didn't know what to expect, but I was glad that I was able to keep up.
2. Was the course presented well? Were the ideas discussed in the chatroom, course text, and transcript notes well-organized and conveyed clearly?
The course was presented well. Having the course text to read over before hand was very helpful. I was glad that we were given copies of the transcript notes so quickly. These helped greatly when completing the assignments.
3. Were the assignments beneficial to the learning process? Why or why not?
I felt the assignments were beneficial, however I was surprised at how many assignments didn't have to be turned in.
4. What did you like most about the course? What did you like least?
I liked that the assignments were returned with comments and suggestion on how to improve my writing.
I didn't like how rushed the class felt.
5. What did the professor do well? What could the professor have done better?
The professor explained things in a way that was easy to understand. She was helpful with questions during the chat sessions and offered to stay after to answer questions. She also made herself available by email and phone if necessary.
6. Is this course something you would recommend to a friend considering law school? Why or Why not? (Please be as honest possible, I will not take any of your comments personally.)
I would recommend it because I felt like I have a better grasp of the type of writing that I will face everyday in law school. The course is a little pricey, and I was required to take it, but I'm glad I did.
